

After you get that off, push back which will release the tab at the back of the piece.

Then lift the back section up where the break is, and it will break into two pieces.

Next stage

Remove back seat, you will see two tabs. Pull these which will release locking mechanism under seat.

To pull side panels off use a flathead screwdriver and lift from one end which will release the back clip then make your way down.

after you get that off you will need a tamper proof screwdriver, sorry not to sure what size though. I just happened to have the right size in my tool kit.

You will see a few screws under the covers you just removed

There is also a tamper proof screw here

When you have removed all screws you can now remove the panel. Start in the middle, move the seat belt down then pull the panel down and out because there are two clips behind plastic on center pillar.
